STANDARDIZATION AND INNOVATION AWARD 2022

Contrary to popular believe, standards are not a break for innovation but actually support innovation in its various aspects, by providing a common language, enhancing quality and interoperability, and by making organizational practices evolve.

In order to identify and promote best practices related to the usage of standards in innovative projects, ILNAS is proud to announce the launch of its new Standardization & Innovation Award.

In this context, we invite organizations, startups, researchers and students from the Grand-Duchy of Luxembourg that have successfully exploited the benefits of standardization to discover, develop, implement and adopt new products and services to apply for our ILNAS Standardization & Innovation Award.

The prizewinner will be announced and handed over the trophy during the award ceremony of the World Standards Day in October 2022.

Applications are open until July 15, 2022
